

Welcome to Israel! To ease your journey to Tzfat (also spelled Tsfat, Zefat, Safed, etc.) we've prepared these detailed directions for you. Have a safe trip, and we'll see you soon!

Directions by Bus or Train to Tzfat:

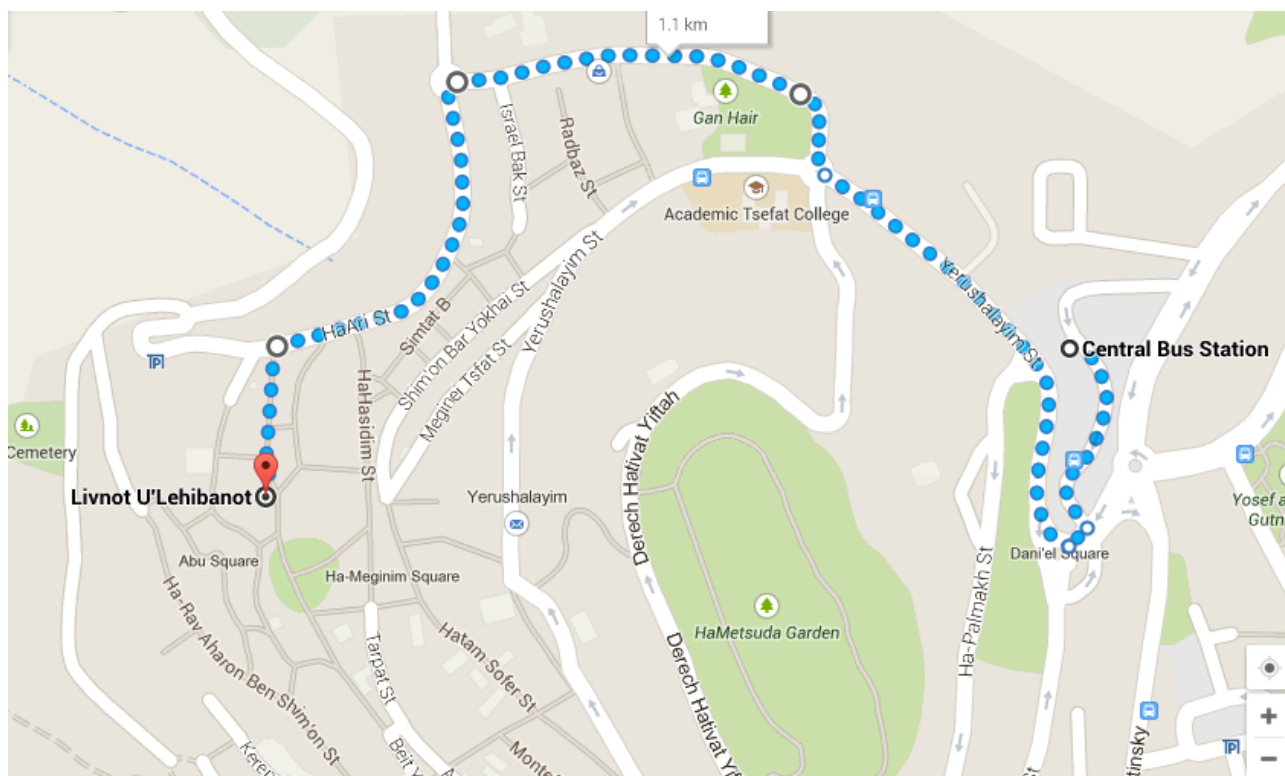

- From Jerusalem: Take bus #982, operated by Nateev Express (their buses are orange and white) from a stop on a street which runs parallel to the Central Bus Station/Light Rail in Jerusalem. The stop is on the side of the street which is opposite the parking lot of the International Convention Center, and is located on Zalman Shazar Street [NOT Yaffo Street].
 - Travel time is approximately 3.5 hours.
- From Tel Aviv: Take bus #846, operated by Egged (their buses are green) at 10:30 am. This is the only direct bus of the morning. It fills up quickly, so catch it from the Central Bus Station and not one of the later stops in town.
- From Tel Aviv or Ben Gurion Airport: Take a train from one of the many Tel Aviv stations (there is even a station inside the airport) to Akko (also spelled Acco). Get off at Akko, and from there Nateev Express bus #361 from Akko to Tzfat. These trains and buses each leave around twice every hour throughout the day. Check the schedules using the links below for more info. To find the bus stop in Akko, as you exit the train station, cross over the street, and turn right onto the main street which is perpendicular to the street of the train station. Walk a few feet, and cross over to its other side where you will see a bus stop [3 shelters connected together]. Check that the #361 stops here, going in the direction of Tzfat. It is approximately a 45 minute ride to Tzfat. There are now direct buses to Tzfat from Netanya, Bnei Brak, Bet Shemesh and Kiryat Gat.
 - Travel time is approximately 3 hours.
